A Drop Of The Hard

A Drop of the Hard Stuff is about crime and punishment, old scores and justice denied, all wrapped up with Scudder's trip through his first year of sobriety and Alcoholics Anonymous. Altogether, this is a terrific read, second only to his best "Everyone Dies", but with a very different, almost surreal background, less tension, and more cerebral.

A Drop of the Hard Stuff. The album title is both an allusion to hard liquor, particularly Irish whiskey, and to the musical difficulty of the fourteen songs chosen for the album [citation needed], which emphasize the considerable depths of talent of the group, from the intricate fiddle and banjo work on "The Galway Races" and the reels,...
