Andrew Carnegie was born to Margaret Morrison Carnegie and William Carnegie in Dunfermline, Scotland in 1835, in a typical weaver's cottage with only one main room, consisting of half the ground floor, which was shared with the neighboring weaver's family. The main room served as a living room, dining room and bedroom. He was named after his legal grandfather.

When are we responsible for our own actions, and when are we in the grip of biological forces beyond our control? This intriguing question is the scientific province of behavioral biology, a field that explores interactions among the brain, mind, body, and environment that have a surprising influence on how we behave—from the people we fall in love with, to the intensity of our spiritual ...

Apart from being a great read, there were my people, on your pages. You showed me the first photo I'd seen of P.J. Rutledge, explained why I was connected to Hannick's pub, delighted me with Mona Curry's sketches such as the ones showing my great grandfather's shopfront (and I learnt the shop was established in 1893) and so much more.
