Maybe it's an understanding, granted by the dissolving physical structures, that the self does not actually at that moment face death or approach death, but has always had death as well as everything else within its view or at its fingertips: that the vision of death—of being extinguished, buried, disintegrating—is death, which can only exist as a part of life. In the midst of death we are in life.

In the Midst of Death. We are frail, broken beings. The passing years provide ample reminders of our frailty: aches and pains, poor eyesight, loss of hearing, high blood pressure, heart problems, memory loss. To make matters worse, our problem is not just physical- it is also spiritual. We are broken spiritually because of sin.

In the Midst of Death - LCMS News & Information

This is a thoroughly useful, authoritative and compassionate book about the last taboo subject- death. In exploring our responses to death, it reveals a great deal about Australian society. There is grim humour in the practical details of burial in the days of pick and shovel-and a priest if you were lucky.
