A labeled graph which can be "gracefully numbered" is called a graceful graph. Label the nodes with distinct nonnegative integers. Then label the graph edges with the absolute differences between node values. If the graph edge numbers then run from 1 to e , the graph is gracefully numbered. In order for a graph to be graceful, it must be without loops or multiple edges.

In mathematics and abstract algebra, group theory studies the algebraic structures known as groups. The concept of a group is central to abstract algebra: other well-known algebraic structures, such as rings, fields, and vector spaces, can all be seen as groups endowed with additional operations and axioms. Groups recur throughout mathematics, and the methods of group theory have influenced many ...
