Review: A Cupboard Full of Coats by Yvvette Edwards. This is a novel about the human experience, flavoured by the community in which it is set. The president of CaribbeanTales.org, Frances-Anne Solomon, has called the people of the Caribbean "natural-born storytellers." Edwards certainly fits that description, as does her character Lemon,...

A Cupboard Full of Coats Quotes. The very first time I went running, it was from that terror, from the possibility of being sucked down into emptiness for ever, and as I ran I discovered I was able to feel; pressure in my lungs, pain in my legs, my skin perspiring, the pounding of my heart. My routine was erratic, I ran when I felt like it,...
