A Gambling Man Charles II

The escape of Charles II from England in 1651 was a key episode in his life. The retreat started with the Royalist defeat at Battle of Worcester on 3 September 1651 when Charles was forced to flee. He had many adventures, most famously hiding up an oak tree in Boscobel Wood, before setting sail at 2:00am on 15 October from Shoreham-by-Sea and arriving in France the following day.

Gambling in the Old West has been an interest of mine for some time. There are a number of excellent books written dealing with certain aspects of 19th Century gambling but it seems that no one has put together a complete book on all the games played in the mining camps and the cow towns from just after the end of the Civil War to the turn of the century.
